

Job's Friends

Job, you must have sinned and God is punishing you.

Don't think that you're better than us. Here's how I see things...

Job, you are a wicked man. You have been cruel and unfair. God knows everything so give up and submit to him.

Look, just accept it; the wicked are punished.

Yes Job, you should really say sorry to God for what you have done.

No one can be pure before God. If even the moon and stars are not pure, what hope do you have?

If you repent, things will go well for you again.

There's no getting away from it: bad things happen to those who are bad.
